The festive season calls for outfits that blend tradition with contemporary flair, and this year, Bollywood's leading men are setting the perfect example. From regal simplicity to bold experimentation, Vicky Kaushal and Karan Tacker are redefining how Indian men approach ethnic fashion.

Fresh from the success of Chaava, Vicky Kaushal embraced understated royalty in a deep maroon kurta paired with crisp white trousers. Featuring delicate embroidery and a tailored fit, the look balanced elegance with masculinity. Styled with sleek sunglasses and his signature charm, Vicky's ensemble proved that festive wear doesn't always need extravagance—minimalism can make just as strong a statement.

On the other hand, Karan Tacker, currently in the spotlight for Special Ops 2, turned heads in a black sequin-studded kurta that shimmered with every move. A daring spin on the traditional silhouette, his look oozed modern sophistication and festive glamour. Perfect for men who want to stand out, the outfit showed how ethnic wear can evolve into something bold, stylish, and red-carpet-worthy.
