

Margot Robbie Stuns in Vintage Mugler at NYC Premiere

Published on 17 Sep 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

Margot Robbie arrived at the New York City premiere of A Big Bold Beautiful Journey on September 15, 2025. She wore a reissued Thierry Mugler gown from the Spring 1998 Haute Couture collection. The black-and-white corseted dress featured daring leg slits and elegant contours, capturing the attention of every photographer. Moreover, the gown was originally showcased by model Honor Fraser during the iconic “Jeu de Paume” runway show.

Styling

Robbie paired the Mugler gown with Lorraine Schwartz jewelry. She wore a gold bangle featuring a diamond center, statement earrings, and several rings. Together, these accessories emphasized both her elegance and bold fashion choices. Additionally, stylist Andrew Mukamal shared vintage runway images highlighting the gown's timeless appeal. Consequently, Robbie's styling merged modern glamour with historical couture perfectly.

A Second Mugler Look

Previously, Robbie wore another Mugler ensemble for the London premiere. That outfit was lingerie-inspired from Mugler's Fall-Winter 1998-1999 collection. Hence, the NYC premiere marked her second homage to vintage Mugler during the press tour. Fans appreciated the continuity of her fashion narrative across international events. In effect, Robbie reinforced her reputation as a red-carpet trendsetter.

The Film: 'A Big Bold Beautiful Journey'

In the movie, Robbie stars opposite Colin Farrell. The story follows two strangers on a surreal journey revisiting pivotal life moments. The film explores memory, love, and self-discovery in visually imaginative ways. Moreover, it highlights Robbie's acting versatility beyond mainstream blockbusters. The movie is set to release in theaters on September 19, 2025.

Robbie's Mugler gown quickly trended on social media. Photographers praised her poise and graceful red carpet walk. Fashion critics highlighted the gown's daring leg slits and structured corset as timeless.
