

Sunday Rose Kidman-Urban Stuns at Chanel Dinner During NYFW

Published on 19 Sep 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

Sunday Rose Kidman-Urban, daughter of Nicole Kidman and Keith Urban, attended a special Chanel dinner. The event marked the launch of Sofia Coppola's new book Chanel Haute Couture during New York Fashion Week. She arrived at the Doubles Club in New York City. There, she joined fashion icons and fellow celebrity offspring alike.

The Look: Black, Sheer, and Sophisticated

Sunday Rose wore an all-black Chanel ensemble that whispered elegance yet spoke loudly. She paired silk trousers with a sheer, ab-baring crop top. Puffy sleeves and ruffles accentuated the top's dramatic silhouette. She accessorized with a rhinestone-embellished velvet Chanel bag and strappy black heels. Moreover, she wore sunglasses and let her hair fall in natural auburn curls. Her makeup remained subtle, putting the focus on her outfit.

Echoes of Mom: Classic Meets Gen Z

Her auburn curls and natural makeup evoked Nicole Kidman's earlier style. Indeed, Sunday's look echoed her mother's 90s red carpet and film era. Micro-sunglasses, tousled hair, bare midriffs — they felt nostalgic yet fresh. She leans into her heritage while making space for her own fashion identity.

Sunday Rose has grown in the fashion world this past year. She did her first runway show for Miu Miu. She also featured in their Spring 2025 campaign. Beyond modeling, she has landed a cover with Nylon magazine as their "It" girl. Yet despite her visibility, she and her family maintain strong boundaries.

Her parents set clear rules: no fashion work before age 16 and schooling comes first. These guidelines keep her grounded. She often remains unrecognized among peers, which she says allows her authenticity.

Style Community, Shared Moments

At the Chanel dinner, Sunday Rose posed with Romy Mars, another figure connected to fashion and celebrity. Many in attendance wore black, merging dress codes with artistic tribute. The event served both celebration and showcase: honoring a fashion institution and spotlighting rising stars.

For more style updates & exclusive fashion stories follow indiafashionicon.com