

Drew Starkey's: From 'Outer Banks' to YSL Beauty

Published on 19 Sep 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

Actor Drew Starkey has had a summer filled with significant milestones. From wrapping up the final season of Outer Banks to becoming the U.S. ambassador for YSL Beauty's MYSLF Absolu fragrance, Starkey's journey reflects both personal and professional growth.

Filming the Final Season of 'Outer Banks'

Starkey spent his summer in Charleston, South Carolina, filming the fifth and final season of Outer Banks. He describes the experience as bittersweet, noting the deep connections formed over six years with the cast and crew. While details about the upcoming season remain under wraps due to non-disclosure agreements, Starkey expresses a mix of excitement and sadness as the series concludes.

Becoming the Face of MYSLF Absolu

In addition to his acting career, Starkey has ventured into the beauty industry. He has been named the U.S. ambassador for YSL Beauty's MYSLF Absolu fragrance. Starkey shares a personal connection to the brand, having been a longtime admirer of YSL's fragrances. He emphasizes the importance of scent in personal identity, stating that it makes him feel "eager to jump into something when it feels like unknown territory."

Summer Playlist Highlights

Music played a significant role in Starkey's summer. His playlist featured a mix of classic and contemporary artists, including David Bowie, The Beach Boys, Mac DeMarco, and Turnstile. He describes Turnstile's latest album as "the album of the summer," noting its frequent rotation during his downtime.

Coping with the South Carolina Heatwave

The intense summer heat in Charleston posed challenges during filming. Starkey describes the weather as "so hot," influencing his daily routine and emotional state. Despite the sweltering conditions, he found solace in indoor activities, such as reading Daniel Mason's North Woods, watching films, and spending time with family.
