

Mirari Unveils Art Deco-Inspired Fine Jewellery: Jazz Age Glamour Meets Modern Geometry

Published on 23 Sep 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

This fine jewellery collection fuses Jazz Age glamour with modern geometry and rare gemstones.

Mirari, the luxury fine jewellery house founded by Mira Gulati, has unveiled its latest Art Deco-inspired collection — a dazzling ode to architecture, geometry, and timeless elegance. Inspired by the bold spirit of the Jazz Age and the soaring silhouette of the Empire State Building, the collection transforms an era of optimism into wearable masterpieces, crafted with natural diamonds and rare gemstones.

?? Architecture Meets Adornment

“The Jazz Age was a time of freedom and bold design, and the Empire State Building became a natural muse for me,” says Mira. “It symbolises ambition, progress, and elegance — qualities we wanted to capture in jewels that feel timeless yet modern.”

That vision comes alive in pieces like the Empire State Danglers, where cascading baguette and round diamonds echo the skyscraper’s towering form. The result is a perfect blend of heritage symbolism and contemporary glamour.

? Rare Gemstones, Modern Craft

The collection showcases an exquisite gemstone palette — lapis lazuli, black onyx, malachite, tiger’s eye, coral, sapphires, and emeralds — cut with architectural precision. Highlights include the City Icon Bracelet, where carved lapis planes create a bold, metropolitan statement.

Mirari’s designs embrace the symmetry of Art Deco while softening edges for comfort and wearability. “We worked with baguette diamonds and emerald cuts to reflect architecture but balanced them with fluid proportions,” Mira explains.

? Gender-Inclusive Elegance

Extending beyond traditional jewellery, Mirari introduces gender-inclusive designs such as cufflinks and lapel pins. “Art Deco’s geometry is naturally universal,” Mira adds. “Jewellery today is about self-expression, and we wanted this collection to feel inclusive for all.”

? Symbolism in Design

From stepped motifs symbolising growth to symmetry as a metaphor for balance and vibrant gemstones that radiate confidence, each piece is designed to be more than adornment — it’s an emblem of individuality.

“Today’s clients want jewellery that feels expressive and personal, yet rooted in quality,” says Mira. “This collection offers exactly that — classic, bold, and endlessly individual.”
