At the 71st National Film Awards held on September 23, 2025 in New Delhi, Rani Mukerji stole the spotlight not only for her acting but her styling. She wore a luxurious Sabyasachi saree, known for rich craftsmanship and elegant drapes. Meanwhile, she added a personal touch by wearing a custom necklace chain that bore her daughter Adira's name. Her makeup was understated yet sophisticated; hair neatly parted in the middle, minimal glam that highlighted her features.

The Awards

Rani was honoured with the Best Actress National Film Award for her performance in Mrs. Chatterjee vs Norway. This win marked a major milestone—her first National Film Award win.

Her role in the film resonates strongly with motherhood and the emotional stakes of fighting for one's children, making the tribute via the chain that bears Adira's name deeply meaningful.

Style & Significance: The Chain, The Saree, The Message

- The custom chain was more than an accessory. It stood as a tribute to her daughter and mirrored the film's themes of motherly love and protection.
- Choosing Sabyasachi, a label revered for its craftsmanship, added gravitas and tradition to her appearance—befitting an event as formal and celebrated as the National Film Awards.
- Her drape and styling balanced the opulent with the intimate, showing that fashion can carry emotional weight.

Reaction & Media Buzz

Her styling choice drew praise from fans and fashion commentators alike. Many applauded the blend of elegance with personal significance.

Social media posts noted how Rani's past roles and personal life converge in this moment: playing a mother on screen, and celebrating motherhood off screen.

Rani Mukerji's moment at the 71st National Film Awards was more than just a win. Through her look—Sabyasachi saree, minimal glam, and that custom chain bearing Adira's name—she conveyed more than style. She told a story: of motherhood, artistry, and personal identity.

If you like, I can pull up photos of her outfit to show how the look came together. Thus comparing it with past award-red carpet styles of hers.
