

Fendi Spring-Summer 2026 Collection: Silvia Venturini Fendi Bursts Into Milan with Colour and Craft

Published on 26 Sep 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

At Milan Fashion Week, Silvia Venturini Fendi unveiled her first co-ed Spring-Summer 2026 collection as the sole creative director of both menswear and womenswear, celebrating colour, craftsmanship, and youthful fantasy. The collection seamlessly blended heritage precision with playful, whimsical flourishes, signaling a new era for the storied Italian house.

The runway opened with a bold colour-block Peekaboo bag, setting the tone for a collection alive with saturated hues—deep reds, turquoise, bubblegum pinks—balanced by grounding neutrals of black and brown. Floral motifs dominated, from daisy-petal cutouts on jackets and dresses to handbags adorned with plush flowers, creating a dreamy, whimsical vibe. Sheer dresses with blurred floral prints, pleated skirts layered with lace blouses, and a fur coat constructed from adjoining florets highlighted the collection's technical and aesthetic mastery.

Venturini Fendi described her vision as “a relaxed and colourful sense of ease with romantic elegance,” evident in the intricate leatherwork. Perforated coats and jackets, sporty side-zipped skirts, and accessories reimagined with sequins, tinsel, or wooden beading reflected the house's ongoing innovation. Even new slingback shoes challenged models on the runway, reminding audiences that functionality remains at the heart of design.

Family tradition also played a central role. Jewellery by Venturini Fendi's daughter, Delfina Delettrez Fendi, including gold cuffs, enamel pendants, and coral-shaped FF earrings, complemented the garments with sculptural shine.

The collection celebrated youthful exuberance while staying rooted in Fendi's heritage of craftsmanship and material innovation, demonstrating Venturini Fendi's confident vision for the house's future. The Milan runway shone with energy and creativity, marking a vibrant new chapter for Fendi.

For more style updates & exclusive fashion stories follow indiafashionicon.com