Mouni Roy continues to make waves on the global fashion scene, and her recent appearance at Milan Fashion Week further solidified her status as a style icon. The actress showcased a perfect fusion of Indian heritage and contemporary fashion, turning heads with her impeccable ensemble.

A Nod to Indian Elegance

For this occasion, Mouni chose a creation from Dhruv Kapoor's Fall/Winter 2025-26 collection. The outfit featured a voluminous red-and-white checkered blouse with soft puffed shoulders and full sleeves, gathered at the wrists. This design element added a touch of traditional Indian aesthetics to the modern silhouette.

Modern Silhouette with Traditional Touches

Pairing the blouse with a wrap-style skirt that boasted an asymmetrical hemline, Mouni added movement and drama to her look. The combination of the structured top and flowing skirt created a balanced and dynamic ensemble.

Footwear that Makes a Statement

To complete her outfit, Mouni opted for pointed knee-length leather boots. These boots not only provided a bold contrast to the softer elements of her attire but also added a contemporary edge, making the ensemble both chic and edgy.

Effortless Beauty and Styling

Mouni's beauty choices complemented her outfit perfectly. She styled her hair in soft waves, allowing for a relaxed yet polished appearance. Her makeup was subtle, enhancing her features without overshadowing the striking outfit.

By choosing to wear Dhruv Kapoor, Mouni not only embraced a designer known for blending modern silhouettes. Finally incorporating with traditional elements but also championed Indian fashion on a global platform
