Priyanka Chopra arrived in Mumbai today. She came to attend the annual North Bombay Sarbojanin Durga Puja hosted by the Mukerji family. She stepped out in a beautiful purple salwar suit. Looking elegant yet rooted in tradition.

When she reached the venue, she greeted many with warmth. She even embraced filmmaker Ayan Mukerji. She was greeted by fans and paparazzi alike. Then she made her way to the pandal.

Inside, she offered her prayers. She bowed and took blessings from the goddess. She also posed for photos, flashing a soft smile.

Emotional Moments, Family Bonds

Beyond the glitz, the celebration was full of touching moments. Earlier, a video of Kajol's daughter Nysa hugging her grandmother, Tanuja, went viral. Many social media users praised the heartfelt bond.

Similarly, Jaya Bachchan shared playful interactions with Kajol at the pandal. In one clip, Kajol teased Jaya, encouraging photographers to focus on her alone. The crowd cheered at that light moment.

On Durga Sasthi, Kajol and Rani Mukerji became emotional while remembering their late uncle Deb Mukherjee. He passed away earlier this year. The sisters spoke softly. Tears welled up in their eyes. The moment was deeply felt by those around.

A Gathering of Bollywood Icons

The event drew many big names. Among them were Twinkle Khanna, Bipasha Basu, Karan Singh Grover, and Jaya Bachchan. They joined Kajol and Rani Mukerji in the festivities.

Priyanka's presence added more star power. She is currently in Mumbai for another commitment. Yet she chose to make time for this cultural celebration.

Together, the attendees formed a bridge between Bollywood glamour and festive tradition.
