

Kendall Jenner Stuns in Sheer White Gown at L'Oréal Paris Fashion Week 2025

Published on 01 Oct 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

Kendall Jenner made a striking appearance at the L'Oréal Paris "You're Worth It" runway show during Paris Fashion Week 2025. Held on September 29 at the Hôtel de Ville, Jenner's presence immediately drew attention. She not only closed the show but also set the tone for elegance and empowerment.

A Showstopping La Perla Gown

For the grand finale, Jenner wore a custom white gown from La Perla's Spring/Summer 2003 collection. The dress featured a plunging V-neckline, a sheer flowing skirt, and a corset-style ruched bodice. Moreover, the daring thigh-high slit added a bold and modern twist, perfectly complementing the couture aesthetic.

To complete the ensemble, Jenner chose transparent Gianvito Rossi heels, which accentuated the gown's ethereal flow. Her soft, rosy-toned makeup enhanced her natural glow, while her hair was styled to maintain the look's sophistication. Every detail highlighted the theme of beauty and empowerment promoted by L'Oréal Paris.

Reinforcing Her Role as Brand Ambassador

Furthermore, this appearance marked another significant moment for Jenner as a global brand ambassador for L'Oréal Paris. She has consistently closed the brand's annual Paris shows, creating memorable fashion moments. Through this tradition, Jenner demonstrates how a celebrity can embody a brand's message while staying true to personal style.

Setting Trends on and off the Runway

In addition, Jenner's look emphasized how classic couture can merge with modern sensibilities. The gown's flowing fabric, corseted details, and daring slit inspired fashion enthusiasts worldwide. By pairing elegance with a contemporary edge, Jenner continues to set trends both on the runway and in everyday fashion circles.

Overall, Kendall Jenner's appearance at Paris Fashion Week 2025 was more than just a runway moment—it was a statement of grace, confidence, and empowerment. Her La Perla gown, flawless styling, and poised presence reinforced her status as a fashion icon and a global influencer, leaving a lasting impression on fans and fashion lovers alike.

For more style updates & exclusive fashion stories follow indiafashionicon.com