

Tiffany & Co. Dazzles in Frankenstein

Published on 01 Oct 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

In Guillermo del Toro's Frankenstein, Tiffany & Co. presents 27 rare pieces of jewelry that enrich both the film's visuals and narrative. The collaboration features ten historic pieces, six archival silver objects, six contemporary creations, and five custom designs for the production. These jewels are not mere accessories but narrative elements that strengthen the characters and atmosphere of the film.

Mia Goth Shines as Elizabeth

Mia Goth, portraying Elizabeth Lavenza, wears nearly all the featured jewelry. The most notable piece is the Wade necklace, adorned with over 40 carats of European-cut diamonds set in gold and platinum. Crafted around 1900, this historic piece had never appeared in modern times, making its on-screen debut truly special.

Artistic Collaboration with Guillermo del Toro

Costume designer Kate Hawley integrated the jewelry as part of the film's visual storytelling. She emphasized that the pieces are part of Elizabeth's character, enriching the color palette and depth of the story. This collaboration represents a new milestone for Tiffany & Co. in cinema, adding an artistic dimension beyond costumes, makeup, and sets.

Release Dates and Anticipation

Frankenstein premieres in theaters on October 17, 2025, and will stream on Netflix from November 7, 2025. With Tiffany & Co.'s luxurious jewels, the film promises to captivate audiences with both classic storytelling and stunning visuals.
