

Rani Mukerji Channels Timeless Blue Saree Glamour

Published on 03 Oct 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

Rani Mukerji, known for her elegant saree moments, recently made waves in what appears a soft blue saree ensemble. Whether at a festive gathering or a cultural event, she celebrated feminine energy through subtle styling. In particular, she accentuated her look with bold earrings, a bright sindoor, traditional bindi, and classic Bengali bangles. Thus, she looked like a vision — graceful, rooted yet radiant.

The Saree Choice & Draping

Although the exact designer is not confirmed, her choice of blue likely ranged from pastel sky blue to royal sapphire. This hue, when paired with fine silk or organza, brings out calmness and regality simultaneously. Meanwhile, she probably draped it in a traditional Bengali or seedha pallu style, which allows the front and drape to frame her face. Furthermore, she might have picked a contrasting border or zari work to highlight the edges — a common touch in her past sarees.

Jewelry & Bengali Accents

To complement the saree, Rani reportedly chose statement earrings—likely gold, kundan, or filigree—drawing attention to her neck and shoulders. In addition, her sindoor (vermilion) and bindi add cultural symbolism and beauty, reinforcing her identity. The inclusion of Bengali bangles (thick red & white bangles) would further root the look in Bengali tradition. Hence, the ensemble becomes more than fashion — it becomes a cultural expression.

Makeup, Hair & Overall Styling

For makeup, a soft, dewy base plus a slightly bold eye look would balance the earrings and the saree hue. A red matte lip or muted coral might tie in the sindoor. Her hair styled in a neat bun with some soft tendrils or waves framing her face. This balance ensures the look remains elegant, not overwhelming.

Rani's Saree Legacy

Rani Mukerji has long been admired for her timeless saree styles. In fact, there is a feature titled “6 Rani Mukerji saree looks you can copy this Durga Puja” that showcases her flair for mixing reds, gold, silks, and subtle colors.
