1. Grey Jeans with Grunge Boots (or Sneakers)

Dakota Johnson often opts for straight grey jeans. She mixes them with either sneakers or grunge boots depending on mood.

If you want that edgy, relaxed energy, choose chunky boots. Yet for a more approachable, everyday feel, clean white or black sneakers work beautifully. Pair with a sweatshirt or leather trench to complete the outfit.

2. Bootcut Jeans with Denim Booties

Bella Hadid showed how to make bootcut jeans relevant again. She teamed them with denim booties and a vibrant blouse. The flare from the jeans balances with the shorter height of booties. Hence smart settings, layer on a blazer. For casual times, go with a denim jacket.

3. Capri Jeans with Pointed Loafers

Capri jeans — cropped just above the ankle — may seem summery. But they're working in cooler months too. Overall Aimee Lou Wood paired hers with pointed loafers, white socks, a T-shirt, and leather jacket.

Therefore pointed silhouette elongates your leg line. Meanwhile, socks add a hint of playfulness.

4. Wide-Leg Jeans with Chunky-Sole Loafers

Wide-leg jeans remain a go-to for many. Jisoo of Blackpink styled hers with chunky-soled loafers and a biker jacket.

Since loftiness of chunky soles offers height without heels. Hence to balance proportions, keep your top fitted or tucked.

5. Cigarette Jeans with Slingback Flats

Hailey Bieber turned classic cigarette jeans into a statement. Meanwhile pairing them with slingback flats, a white cropped top, and an oversized jacket.

Thus the combination feels clean, sharp, but still relaxed. It's a good mix for day or evening.

Style Tips to Try These Looks Yourself

- Mind proportions. Whereas jeans are wide or baggy, counter with structured tops.
- Choose footwear that extends or grounds. Chunky soles add height; flats ground the outfit.
- Play with socks. Visible socks can be a style element, not just function.

- Cuff with care. One wide cuff works better than many small rolls.
- Stick to complementary tones. Also neutral jeans pair easily with many shoe colors.
