

Kangana Ranaut Glitters in Tarun Tahiliani Blue Sari Drama

Published on 11 Oct 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

Kangana Ranaut recently shared photos of herself in a resplendent Tarun Tahiliani ensemble, captioning them “All that glitter is gold.”

Her outfit bridged the worlds of heritage and high-fashion, blending traditional opulence with couture boldness.

The drama of fabric and detail

The saree itself is crafted in lustrous silk with a vivid royal blue base. Over this, intricate gold butis were woven throughout, giving it a luminous quality.

Bordering the drape was a delicate mix of blush pink and sage green, enriched by fine beadwork and zari embroidery. These pastel tones soften the jewel intensity of the main body, creating balance.

The pallu was particularly eye-catching: embroidered paisley and floral motifs in metallic threads, plus touches of sequins or crystals, cascaded gracefully across the shoulder.

The blouse: structure meets statement

Complementing the saree, Kangana wore a structured royal blue blouse with a deep square neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Hence blouse was densely is with multicolored threads, creating strong visual contrast with the fluid drape of the saree.

Thus juxtaposition — a sculpted blouse versus the soft flow of the saree — gave the entire outfit dynamic tension. It also allowed the saree to shine without overpowering the silhouette.

Styling that elevates elegance

Kangana accessorized with statement gold jhumkas, opting for pieces that echoed the saree’s detailing without competing. Her hair parted at the center into a refined bun, keeping the frame clean and elegant.

Makeup-wise, she embraced a luminous, relatively minimal palette: glowing skin, defined eyes, and a restrained lip — all enhancing the richness of the outfit rather than competing with it.
