

Kristen Stewart's Street Style: A Bold Blend of Sporty & Western

Published on 18 Oct 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

After wrapping up a day of filming her upcoming drama Full Phil in Paris, Kristen Stewart was spotted embracing a chic and eclectic ensemble. The actress, known for her bold fashion choices, stepped out in a striking red-and-white outfit.

The Outfit Breakdown

- Top: Stewart donned a white, workwear-inspired blouse, leaving a few top buttons undone for a relaxed, casual effect.
- Bottoms: She paired the blouse with matching wide-leg slacks, creating a clean, monochromatic base.
- Outerwear: To add contrast, she layered on a corduroy, Western-tinged blazer in scarlet, cinched at the waist with a matching skinny belt.
- Footwear: Completing the look, Stewart opted for white Adidas sneakers featuring blue and red stripes on the side, adding a sporty twist to the ensemble.
- Accessories: Her accessories included stacked gold and silver necklaces, one adorned with an aquamarine pendant, and a patterned claw clip holding her messy bun.

A Fashion Statement in Paris

Stewart's outfit exemplified the 2025 trend of urban fashion hybrids, where tailored pieces are by sneakers and casual styling. Her ability to blend different aesthetics into one cohesive look. Therefore showcased her fashion versatility and cemented her status as a style icon
