

Alia Bhatt's Simple Festive Glam in Abu Jani Sandeep Khosla

Published on 22 Oct 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

This Diwali, Alia Bhatt opted for a look that broke from the usual bold festive-glam trend. Instead of heavy sequins or vibrant colours, she chose an elegant ensemble by Abu Jani Sandeep Khosla — and in doing so, she turned heads for her tasteful simplicity.

Notably, the outfit went viral because it was understated. It demonstrated that festive dressing can be refined instead of over-the-top.

The Outfit: Silhouette, Fabric & Detail

Alia wore a chikankari kurta paired with a chiffon skirt-saree hybrid, designed for her Diwali celebration at home. The kurta featured delicate white embroidery, subtle threadwork and soft tones — while the skirt-saree layered in chiffon created movement and elegance. This styling marked a choice for comfort, finesse and modern ethnic ease. She avoided heavy embellishment. The emphasis was on texture, fluid drape and soft silver-grey accents rather than loud gold or oversize jewellery.

Styling: Minimal Glam, Maximum Impact

Alia complemented the outfit with minimal accessories. She chose a statement choker, left other jewellery pared-back, and kept her hair loosely styled with subtle festive touches. Her makeup leaned fresh: dewy skin, soft eyeshadow and natural lips.

By doing this, she let the outfit speak. The minimal approach elevated the look — and made it more about style refinement than showiness.

Why It Resonates

- Trend shift: Rather than chasing maximalist grandeur, Alia embraced quiet luxury — signalling that minimal can be the new bold.
- Craft focus: By choosing a chikankari kurta and chiffon skirt by Abu Jani Sandeep Khosla, she spotlighted design detail over showy branding.
