

Kim Kardashian & Teyana Taylor Match in Black Snakeskin Leather at London Premiere

Published on 27 Oct 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

At the London premiere of their upcoming series All's Fair, Kim Kardashian and Teyana Taylor made a unified fashion statement by turning up in matching black snakeskin leather ensembles. According to Harper's Bazaar, both donned shiny reptile-effect leathers and metallic silver hardware.

Their look not only aligned in material but in tone—both pieces channelled boldness, structure and a gothic luxe aesthetic.

The Look Details

- Kim's outfit: a form-fitting snakeskin leather dress with a double-strapped bodice, belt-buckle hardware and silver chain layering.
- Teyana's outfit: a floor-length coat-dress in the same black snakeskin leather theme, featuring oversized lapels, exaggerated hips, a cinched waist with silver hardware, and pointed-toe heels.
- Both stylings emphasised metallic accents and reptilian textures—effectively merging the idea of fashion as armour and fashion as statement.

Why This Look Resonates

- Power dressing meets trend: These looks tap into a strong trend of leather, snakeskin texture and structured silhouettes—materials often associated with strength and attitude.
- Visual cohesion: While not identical, the coordinated aesthetic between the two stars elevates the red carpet moment from individual appearances to a thematic fashion moment.
- Event relevance: Given that All's Fair is a legal drama centred on divorce and high-stakes power plays, the bold, sharp styling aligns with the thematic tone of the show.
- Fashion statement: The choice of snakeskin leather in black with silver hardware brings an edgy, almost gothic luxury feel—it's dramatic, yet polished
