

Sofia Richie Grainge Rocks Chic Maternity Look in Unbuttoned Navy Coat

Published on 28 Oct 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

Sofia Richie Grainge made a stylish entrance in Los Angeles as she stepped out showcasing her baby bump. Her look? A long navy military-style coat, left partly unbuttoned to reveal her growing silhouette. With this appearance she effortlessly bridged her personal news — being pregnant with her second child — and her fashion persona.

The Outfit Breakdown

Richie Grainge opted for a tailored navy military coat — complete with gold buttons and a high collar. By leaving the coat partially open, she consciously allowed her baby bump to discreetly show through. Underneath, she paired straight-leg blue jeans that sat below the bump. She completed the outfit with pointy black heels, slicked-back hair in a ballerina bun, and diamond jewelry from Tiffany & Co..

Her husband, Elliot Grainge, coordinated in a tailored navy suit with a black turtleneck — the couple clearly matched in palette and energy.

Why This Look Works

Firstly, the structured coat keeps her signature minimalist aesthetic intact. Even during pregnancy, Richie Grainge maintained her clean-lines style.

Secondly, letting the coat remain open is a confident maternity move. It subtly highlights the bump without making it the only focal point.

Thirdly, combining casual jeans with formal outerwear creates a chic, modern balance — comfort meets polish, especially relevant for expectant wardrobes.

Personal & Professional Intersection

By stepping out publicly with her baby bump, Sofia Richie Grainge is embracing a new life stage. At the same time: she's making it a style moment. Her look signals motherhood and momentum.

She's not hiding the bump — she's styling around it with intention. That registers not just in the celeb fashion sphere but in broader maternity-wear conversations.

For more style updates & exclusive fashion stories follow indiafashionicon.com