

Yami Gautam Brings Ethereal Elegance to ‘Haq’ Trailer Launch

Published on 29 Oct 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

At the trailer launch of the upcoming film Haq, Yami Gautam stepped onto the red carpet in a striking saree by designer Ritu Kumar. According to media snapshots and social-post sources, the saree was a cobalt blue floral design, styled with understated accessories so the drape itself could shine.

Why the styling stood out

- Colour choice: The bold cobalt tone gave a fresh twist to traditional saree colours often seen at such events.
- Floral detail: The floral print brought softness to the look, balancing the strong hue and giving it a romantic edge.
- Minimalist accessories: Yami appeared to keep her jewellery and styling minimal, allowing the saree's statement colour and print to be dominant.
- Event context: The trailer launch of Haq, a film rooted in intense themes, demanded a look that was elegant yet serious. Her saree delivered that mood.

The bigger picture

This look underscores a trend where Indian actresses are selecting traditional staples for glamorous events, but with modern touches. Whether it's bold colours, thoughtful prints or simplified styling. Yami's appearance is a nod to that fusion of heritage and contemporary glamour.

Yami Gautam at the trailer launch is a masterclass in how to wear a saree for a high-profile film event. The Ritu Kumar saree, in its bold cobalt and floral motif, complements the cinematic importance of the moment.
