Bollywood actress Shilpa Shetty has once again raised the bar for festive glam, stepping out in a spectacular hand-embroidered sharara set that comes with a price tag of Rs 1,33,500.

Designed by Mahima Mahajan, the ensemble is a silk organza and features a deep forest-green “fanah” print. Its striking mix of traditional craftsmanship and modern styling makes it an exemplary festive look.

Outfit Details & Styling

- The standout feature is the cap-sleeved blouse heavily hand-embroidered in floral motifs with shades of pink and violet.
- A richly embroidered dupatta drapes gracefully over one shoulder, amplifying the drama of the silhouette.
- Styling by Sukriti Grover adds elegance: chunky emerald-toned earrings, stacked bangles, a bold cocktail ring, with sleek ponytail and side-swept strands by Seema Mane.
- Makeup by Ajay Shelar—contoured cheeks, nude-pink lips and subtle gold eyeshadow—lets the outfit shine without competing.

Why This Look Stands Out

- Luxury festewear: At Rs 1.33 lakh, the outfit reflects premium craftsmanship—silk organza, detailed hand embroidery and thoughtful design.
- Colour & texture: The forest green with vibrant embroidery gives richness and festive appeal without being garish.
- Old-meets-new: Traditional sharara silhouette meets contemporary styling (minimal accessories, modern cut), making it both rooted and wearable.
- Celebrity brand value: Shilpa's choice reinforces her status as a style icon who can pull off festive glamour with finesse.
