

Rosalía Debuts Bleached Halo Hair at NYC “LUX” Listening Party

Published on 03 Nov 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

The event took place at The Weylin, a former church-like bank in Brooklyn, New York. The historic, high-domed setting added dramatic ambience to the listening party for Rosalía’s fourth album, LUX.

Among the invited guests were stars like Dua Lipa, Callum Turner and Emily Ratajkowski, lending the night a high-fashion, high-profile feel.

The Look: Sheer Gown + Bleached Halo

Rosalía donned a sheer ivory-tinted chiffon gown from Colleen Allen’s Autumn/Winter 2025 line, styled by Jose Caravol. Key features included a deep V-neck, central ruching and floral lace accents at the hips, followed by a floor-skimming train.

Most strikingly, her hair featured a “halo” of bleached blonde hair around her head—an edgy contrast to her otherwise dark locks—which she revealed she teased and documented in a short video on TikTok.

The bleached halo isn’t just a change of color—it’s a visual statement. By contrast with her usual hair, this halo creates a luminous frame and draws attention to her face and styling. It aligns with the album’s themes of sainthood and feminine divinity, as the venue and the look both suggest.

In short, it’s a beauty move that complements the thematic identity of LUX rather than functioning purely as a trend.

Styling & Accessories Highlights

- Footwear: She wore cross-pendant sandals for a delicate touch.
- Additional styling: Vintage pieces (including a mention of some by Alexander McQueen), as well as sheer layering and “apron dress” styling in other looks.
- The overall styling pushed a mix of ethereal and edgy — the sheer goddess gown paired with a bold hair moment.