Interior designer turned fashion maven Gauri Khan made waves recently during a casual evening outing with friends and family. She slipped into a stunning V-neck blue midi dress from Victoria Beckham that reportedly retails for ₹97,998, effortlessly blending sophistication and relaxed glamour.

Dress Details That Turn Heads

The dress, in a soft Bluebell shade, features a gently gathered waist, short sleeves, and a fluid skirt that falls just below the knee. Its design hints at vintage silhouettes but remains firmly modern, making it ideal for a dinner-date setting. According to the article, the tailoring accentuates the waist and hips while the pleated details add subtle texture.

Accessories That Seal the Look

Gauri didn't stop at the dress. She elevated the ensemble with a vintage crocodile Capucines bag from Louis Vuitton and paired it with patent-leather Jimmy Choo mules (priced around ₹89,907) featuring crystal-strap detailing—luxury touches that supplemented the outfit without overwhelming it. Her hair fell in soft curls with a side part, and her makeup remained fresh and minimal—light blush, curled lashes, and a nude lip completed the refined yet relaxed vibe.

A Fashion Statement in One Go

Gauri Khan has long been recognized for her style vision—whether she's attending premieres or stepping out for dinner. This latest outfit reinforces her status as someone who understands how to dress smartly for the moment. Her ability to choose fashion pieces that feel elevated but not contrived is what makes her looks relatable and aspirational at once.
