Billionaire heir-turned-style icon Isha Ambani stepped out in an eye-catching green mini dress from Saint Laurent, instantly creating buzz in fashion circles. The striking silk outfit, priced at roughly ₹4,09,105 (~ US $4,550), showcased sharp shoulders, long fitted sleeves, a structured neckline and a short hemline — a departure from her usual traditional couture.

Styled by Dani Michelle, the look was elevated with netted stockings, a gold mini heart-shaped minaudière, suede slingbacks, and a stack of golden bracelets — striking a balance between high fashion and playful elegance.

With makeup handled by Tanvi Chemburkar and hairstyling by Mike Desir, Isha's glam featured smoky eyes, defined brows, soft nude lips and luminous skin — complemented by loose side-parted curls that added softness to the bold outfit.

The ensemble's accessories — shimmering gold bracelets, the heart-shaped clutch and subtly sophisticated slingbacks — pulled the whole look together, giving the outfit a refined yet contemporary finish. Her choice reflects how global designer wear, luxury labels, and confident styling are becoming an integral part of her evolving public persona — blending opulence, trend-savvy aesthetic, and personal expression.
