

Healing with Hope: The Inspiring Journey of Dr. Renuka Patil

Published on 10 Dec 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

August 2015 marked a turning point in the life of Dr. Renuka Patil, as two major milestones converged almost simultaneously — her marriage and the completion of her doctoral examination. Both events, significant in their own right, arrived together, shaping the course of her personal and professional life.

By March 2015, Dr. Patil had cleared her doctoral exams, and shortly after, she entered married life. With marriage came new responsibilities, household duties, and adjustments that demanded time and attention. Despite these changes, she was determined not to abandon her professional aspirations. She made a conscious decision not to pursue a conventional job but instead envisioned building something of her own.

However, the path ahead was unclear.

One afternoon, while managing household work, she found herself restless and searching for direction. Acting on instinct, she began exploring nearby localities — within a nine-kilometre radius — in search of a suitable place to begin her practice. For nearly two days, she searched for a small commercial space. Eventually, with the help of a broker, she found a modest clinic space measuring just 10 by 10 feet.

On 13 November 2015, the clinic was formally inaugurated with a traditional puja ceremony. Around the same time, Dr. Patil learned she was pregnant. Doctors advised her to take at least one month of rest. Despite this, she continued travelling daily between home and clinic, covering nearly 8–10 kilometres. Unfortunately, by the end of December, she suffered a miscarriage.

Determined to move forward, she resumed her clinic operations on 1 January 2016, viewing it as a new beginning.

The early days were challenging. Patient footfall was minimal, particularly because the clinic was located in a residential area where people were hesitant to spend on physiotherapy as a primary treatment. At times, it seemed setting up a physiotherapy clinic there might have been a mistake.

Instead of waiting for patients to come in, Dr. Patil decided to take awareness to the people. She began visiting housing societies and public gardens, conducting physiotherapy awareness camps. She explained what physiotherapy is, how it works, and how conditions like back pain, neck pain, and joint issues could be treated without medication, using therapeutic exercises and clinical techniques.

She patiently counselled each patient, encouraging them to try treatment before dismissing it. By offering affordable treatment plans and focusing on results, she slowly earned the community's trust. Gradually, patients began returning — and recommending her services to others.

Many people initially approached her expecting only massage therapy. Dr. Patil made it a point to clarify that physiotherapy is a structured, therapeutic treatment, not just massage. There were moments of success and moments of self-doubt, especially when she questioned whether years of study had been reduced to misconceptions.

Yet, perseverance paid off.

Over the next 7 to 10 years, Dr. Patil continued her work with unwavering commitment, often without realising how many lives she was positively impacting. Thousands of patients benefitted from her treatments, a fact that only became clear in hindsight.

In 2025, marking another major milestone in her journey, Dr. Renuka Patil successfully expanded her practice with the launch of her second physiotherapy centre in Pune — a testament to resilience, dedication, and purpose-driven healthcare.
