Bollywood actress Tara Sutaria turned heads with a glamorous tribute to Jennifer Lopez's iconic 2002 film look from Maid in Manhattan, posting a monochrome style homage on social media on December 9, 2025.

The Look: A Modern Twist on a Classic

Sutaria wore a strapless, nude-peach evening gown — a sleek reimagining of J-Lo's memorable red-carpet attire. The gown, created by design duo Gauri & Nainika, featured a floor-grazing silhouette with soft pleats and a sculpted cut, capturing the original's elegance while imprinting a subtle contemporary sheen.

To complete the tribute, she paired the gown with a delicate diamond necklace and matching earrings, opted for a polished bun hairstyle and soft, neutral-toned makeup — which she styled herself.

On Instagram, Tara shared a carousel of images and wrote: "An homage to one of my favourite costumes worn by an actress in film, ever... Jennifer Lopez in Maid in Manhattan. She was/is the epitome of elegance and glamour." She also thanked the designers for re-creating "their version" of the evening gown for her, and noted she did her own makeup.

Fashion critics and fans alike noticed that Sutaria didn't attempt to outshine the original — rather, she embraced its cinematic nostalgia with restraint and grace. The tribute was viewed as a thoughtful nod to a timeless Hollywood moment, adapted tastefully for 2025.

Legacy, Reinvented

The recreation highlights a growing trend among contemporary celebrities — revisiting iconic looks of the past and reinterpreting them through present-day sensibilities. For Tara, it underlines admiration for classic style, while showcasing how cultural moments from early-2000s cinema still resonate in today's fashion narrative.

Tara Sutaria's homage — combining nostalgia, restraint and elegance — may well encourage more reinterpretations of iconic styles, bridging decades of cinematic fashion.
