

Rekha's Regal Return: Ivory-Gold Saree Stuns at Jeddah

Published on 10 Dec 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

Legendary Bollywood actress Rekha turned heads and stirred hearts at the 2025 Red Sea International Film Festival, where she was honoured during the 4K screening of her iconic film Umrao Jaan (1981).

Draped in a luxurious ivory-and-gold silk saree featuring delicate gota-patti work and classic craftsmanship, Rekha radiated timeless grace. She paired the drape with diamond-polki chandelier earrings, a pearl-gold hair brooch, bold red lips, and her signature sindoor — a combination that underscored her status as an eternal style icon.

A Night of Tribute, Reflection & Legacy

As the restored version of Umrao Jaan played on screen, Rekha received the festival's honour and recited lines from the film live — a moment that blended nostalgia, emotion, and cinematic poetry. The audience greeted her with sustained applause, appreciating not just her legendary on-screen legacy but also the quiet dignity and charisma she carried on stage.

In her speech, the veteran actor reflected on how films — and especially Umrao Jaan — shaped her life. She spoke about humility, vulnerability, and the enduring power of silent expression, echoing the emotional depth that has defined her career.

More than a Fashion Moment — A Statement of Timelessness

Rekha's appearance underscored that true elegance transcends fleeting fashion trends. Her choice of a classic silk saree, traditional jewellery and understated styling reaffirmed her reputation as a living benchmark of Indian glamour and heritage couture. Fashion-watchers noted that in a world of changing trends, her look stood out as a master-class in timeless style.

For many fans and on-lookers, the night was more than a festival event — it was a celebration of legacy, artistry, and the kind of grace that only decades of cinematic excellence can bestow
