Bollywood star Alia Bhatt captivated global fashion audiences at the Red Sea International Film Festival, gracing the red carpet in a stunning amber-hued floral couture gown by Lebanese designer Elie Saab from his Fall/Winter 2025-26 collection.

The strapless gown featured delicate floral prints, a soft amber tone and flowing satin fabric that complemented Bhatt's poise and elegance, making it one of the festival's most talked-about looks. Her styling — minimal yet luminous makeup, loose waves and understated jewellery — allowed the gown's artistic design to take centre stage.

The look was showcased during a gala evening at the ongoing Red Sea Film Festival in Jeddah, where Bhatt also received widespread praise for her presence and fashion sensibility. The couture piece from Elie Saab, a brand celebrated for its intricate handwork and luxury aesthetics, brought a blend of classic restraint and contemporary romanticism to the global red carpet spotlight.

Bhatt's fashion moment reflects her growing influence not just as an actress but as a global style ambassador, proving her ability to carry haute couture with ease and sophistication. Her choice of attire also highlights the continued relevance of couture fashion in international film festivals, where designers and celebrities celebrate craftsmanship and artistic expression.
