Published on 23 Dec 2025 | By IFI Correspondent

Aakash Meshram and Kavita Meshram are living proof that vision, resilience and purpose can turn modest beginnings into global success stories. Coming from humble backgrounds and driven by a shared belief in the transformative power of education, the duo laid the foundation of SAUK (Study Advisers) with one clear mission—to help students cross borders not just geographically, but also in mindset, opportunity, and ambition.

An investment banker by profession, Aakash Meshram brings with him over a decade of experience in commodities and derivatives, along with firsthand exposure to international education systems gained through travel across more than 35 countries. This global experience, combined with Kavita Meshram's strategic and operational insight, became the backbone of SAUK's student-centric approach to overseas education consulting.

Founded in 2019, SAUK began as a vision to simplify a complex and often intimidating process for students aspiring to study abroad. Today, that vision has evolved into a trusted institution that has successfully guided over 2,500 students toward international education and meaningful careers. Each success story reflects the founders' deep commitment to ethical guidance, transparency, and personalized mentoring.

What truly distinguishes SAUK in India's competitive education consulting landscape is its end-to-end support system. From university applications and visa assistance to airport pickup and on-ground settlement at the final destination, SAUK ensures that students and their families feel supported at every step of the journey—long after the admission letter is received.

With its head office in Manchester and a strong presence in Nagpur, Maharashtra, SAUK seamlessly bridges global opportunities with local aspirations. The consultancy caters to students from diverse socio-economic backgrounds, empowering them with the confidence and clarity needed to thrive in international environments.

The journey of Aakash Meshram and Kavita Meshram is not just about building a successful firm—it is about building futures. Through SAUK, they continue to inspire thousands of young minds to dream bigger, aim higher, and believe that no background is too small when ambition is guided by the right mentorship.
