

Nita Ambani Radiates Regal Elegance in Peacock?Blue Banarasi Saree

Published on 08 Jan 2026 | By IFI Correspondent

Nita Ambani, Founder and Chairperson of the Reliance Foundation, turned heads with her exquisite traditional ensemble at a recent cultural celebration held at the Swadesh flagship store in Mumbai, an event honouring India's rich craftsmanship and artisan community.

At the gathering, Ambani showcased a stunning peacock?blue Banarasi silk saree, crafted using the historic Kadhua weaving technique, known for its resilience and intricate artistry — a tribute to India's time-honoured textile heritage.

She elevated the look with heritage jewellery, including antique Kundan polki earrings reportedly over a century old, a handcrafted jadau bird ring from Swadesh, and a haath phool passed down from her mother, weaving personal legacy with regal style.

The peacock?blue hue and luxurious weave of the saree, paired with carefully selected heirloom accessories, reflected both India's cultural richness and Ambani's graceful fashion sensibility. Her appearance drew admiration on social platforms and highlighted the evening's theme of celebrating traditional artisans and their crafts.

The Swadesh event served not just as a showcase of artistry but also as a platform for elevating India's traditional crafts on a national stage, with Ambani's attire symbolising both respect for heritage and contemporary elegance
