Nick Jonas on Parenting with Priyanka Chopra: ‘She’s Never Done a Thing Wrong’

During a candid conversation on The School of Greatness podcast hosted by Lewis Howes, Nick Jonas expressed his admiration for Priyanka. He described her as a source of strength and inspiration in their home.

“Having an amazing teammate in my wife, just the woman that she is, has helped me and my daughter. We’ve all benefited from that, and it’s amazing to walk side by side with someone as brilliant as her. It makes fatherhood even more special,” Nick said.

The couple, who tied the knot in a grand ceremony in December 2018, welcomed their daughter via surrogate in January 2022. Despite their busy professional lives, they frequently share glimpses of their family time, often melting hearts on social media.

Three Life Lessons for Malti Marie

When asked about the core values he wants to pass on to his daughter, Nick highlighted kindness, hospitality, and the incredible role model that Priyanka is.

“You will never regret being kind, even when it seems impossible.”

“Always keep your doors open and your table bigger—there should always be room for others in your life.”

“Your mother is a saint. She’s never done a single thing wrong in her life. She’s the best.”

Priyanka Balances Motherhood and Stardom
